

The electronic education course "Stylistics of the English Language" aims at formation of students' understanding of the functioning of linguistic resources in different areas of communication and teaching how to select linguistic and stylistic means for optimal implementation of communication purposes.

The objectives of the course include:

the formation of ideas about the stylistic differentiation of language means in the English language;

the study of the phonetic, lexical and syntactic means of expression and stylistic devices of the English language , their relationships and functions in the text;

the study of the principles of separation of functional styles of modern English language and peculiarities of their functioning in intercultural communication;

the study of the research methods of stylistic devices, means of expression; the study of the principles of analysis and interpretation of texts of different functional-style and genre affiliation.

The course includes practical exercises of various types to be performed both individually and in groups